

Session 21: Garden and Temple Imagery for God's People

Key Takeaways

- The new humanity is an assembly of people who are now the physical expression of Jesus himself.
- Paul uses the metaphors of a temple and a garden to describe the way that the new humanity fills the world with Jesus' presence.

Temples and Trees

Paul describes the new community of Jesus followers with a mixture of temple, tree, and body metaphors. All of these are pointing to the reality that Jesus is the place where the fullness of God comes to overlap with Earth. And the new humanity participates in this fullness in Jesus.
